

CALL FOR PARTICIPATION

NATURES IN TRANSITION Sociologizing the Environment

Papers that deal with the sociology of the following topics are welcome:

- Agriculture and natural resources
- Sustainable development
- Environmental movements
- Leisure, recreation, and tourism
- Energy and fuels
- Cities and urbanization
- Hazards and risks, including forecasting and disaster management

The environment is not only a technical field, but it is also a sociological fact. Societies in general and different groups within any given society in particular perceive their natural habitat differently. Across time and space, responses to the environment differ considerably. This year's PSS conference seeks to highlight the varied and changing sociological frames through which Filipinos perceive the environment, interact with and relate to various facets of their environment, adopt appropriate social organizations and behaviors suitable to their local environment, and respond to a range of environmental hazards and events.

Abstracts of proposed papers should not exceed 200 words, and should state clearly the research question, key arguments, and major findings. Please send abstracts to the PSS Secretariat via email to projects@pssc.org.ph or send a fax to (02) 9244178.

Deadline of abstracts and panel proposals is on 15 June 2010.

Deadline for submission of full papers is on 30 September 2010.
